THE WHOLESOME COLD SNAP. - The old saying, "A green, Yule makes a fat churchyard," is founded in better reason than was probably believed in the misty, traditional time that originated the proverd. It is indeed nothing supernatural or wonderful, but a simp'e sequence of cau-e and effect that a mild mid-winter with its sudden changes and damp influences, superinduces those varieties of diseases which often have a fatal ending. An open season, although apparently a blessing to the poor, was really the seed-time of death, which reaped an ample harvest the following Spring; and thus it was that the green Christmas helped to fill up the village place of graves. What was true in old times and of rural neighborhoods is just as true now and in crowded cities. Considered in its narrowest aspect, that of its effect on bodily wellbeing, a soft, warm holiday season, although welcomed as a Providental benefaction, is a very melancholy thing to the physician or the social philosopher, who takes a broader view of the subject. Certainly the cold snap which now holds the city, as it were, in icy jaws brings positive discomfort. The well-clad citizen who, with chattering teeth and tingling ears. hurries to his warm office or counting-room, will testify emphatically to this point. So will the citizen who is ill clad, who has no warm office or counting rooom, and whose cheerless home is inadequately fortified against the piercing assault of the frosty winds. It is unquestionably a time of suffering for the poor, and public and private charitable activities should be exceptionally liberal. Still, a mild Christmas would be worse, not only for the well-clad, shivering, and perhaps grumbling citizen, but also for his impoverished neighbor. A moderate Winter is more fruitful of colds, coughs, the resulting consumption which galops apace, and kindred allments, than is a Winter of dry and steady cold-especially in this country of climatic treachery, where winter moderation is equivalent to occasional dampness more penetrating and perlions than severe cold. To ailments of this kind the poor are subject equally with the rich. Indeed, the former suffer more, as they are unprovided with the preventive and curative appliances within reach of the latter. So that poor as well as rich should breathe through chattering teeth a thanksgiving for the wholesome cold snap, remembering that "a green Yule makes a fat churchyard." Aside from considerations of bodily well-being, the beneficial effects of the cold weather will hardly be questioned. While it promotes physical health for the present and in the next Summer, it is certainly healthful to agricultural, manufacturing, commercial, and therefore financial interests Seasonable order is undoubtedly the best order. A warm Winter is as undesirable as a cold Summer. Snow and ice, despite their incidental annoyances, are essential to the earth's proper productiveness, and the grateful soil uniformly acknowledges in a substantial way their useful agency. It would be easy to show how trade is stimulated by seasonable weather, and how all other industries share the Speed of Racers. - The New Orleans Picayune has a long article on the turf. It says: "On all the tracks in the United States the mile is measured three feet from the inner rail, that being the supposed place where the inside horse will run. Now if a circle be made one mile round and a horse runs four feet from it on the outside, he will have run 25 feet and 1 inch further each mile, or 100 feet and 4 inches in four miles; indeed; if a circle be made of any given circumference, and a circle be made tour feet from it on the outside, there will still be the same difference of 25 feet 1 inch, whether the inner circle be one yard round or ten thousand. As race tracks are not made in circles, but usually as the Metairie is, towit: Two straight stretches of one quarter each, and two semi-circles uniting them of one-quarter miles each, the same rule holds good; for as the two straight stretches are the same distance to every horse, whether he be one yard or ten yards from the inner fence, and the two semi-circles making one whole circle, the same difference of 25 feet and 1 inch to the mile will exist between two horses running four feet from each other. As horses rarely, if ever, run lapped for four miles, let us take an extreme case and one not likely to occur often. Suppose one horse trails another for three and a half miles, and on entering the eighth or last turn of the four miles he makes his brush and laps his opponent, and the race is declared a dead heat; in this case the outside horse would really have beaten the inner 121 feet.

stimulus to the advantage of the poor as well

ought to be welcome. - Brooklyn Eagle.

Lexington's four miles in 7.233 was run at the rate of 47 feet 7 inches and 1 line in the second. Lexington's race in 7:19‡ was run at the rate of 48 feet 0 inch and 3 lines to the second. Now the nearest approach to those two races were Lecomte's and Idlewild's in 7:26, or 48 feet 4 inches and 3 lines to the second, so that 7 233 beats 7:20 106 feet 6 inches, and 7:193 beats 7:27 296 feet.

Let us take the average speed of a horse for a mile dash and mile heats to be 1 minute 38 seconds, and he will be running at the rate of 38 feet 10 inches to the second. Two miles, at the average rate of 3 minutes and 42 seconds, and he is running at the rate of 47 feet 4 inches to the second. Three miles, at the average rate of 5 minutes 48 seconds, and he is running at the rate of 46 feet 10 inches to the second. Four miles, at the average rate of 7 minutes 46 seconds, and he is running at the rate of 45 feet 3 inches to the second.
